AMERICA AND BRITAIN MUST SAVE PEOPLES

—DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

Ex-Premier warns Civilization is Doomed Unless They Unite

BULLETIN. New York, Nov. 3.—(By The Associated Press.)—David Lloyd George, former premier of Great Britain, sailed for home on the steamship Majestic today with his wife, Dame Margaret, and daughter, Miss Megan. Right up to the minute of sailing, in his cabin and on the broad decks of the steamer, he was besieged by officials and delegations wishing him Godspeed.

New York, Nov. 3.—(By The Associated Press.)—David Lloyd George today turned his face toward London, leaving behind him a final plea for the United States not to be too hard on Europe but to drive home to that stricken continent the conviction that right is supreme over force.

In his last speech, after a tour of the United States and Canada, delivered in the crowded Metropolitan Opera House, the war time premier of Great Britain warned that within this generation civilization was doomed to a catastrophe such as history has never recorded unless the United States and the British empire together stamped out the belief that force alone rules the world.

France at the present moment is committed to holding the wolf by the ear," he said. "She cannot let go, ultimately it may turn and rend her."

"I heard yesterday from a man who had just returned from Germany, who met one of the officers who had been appointed at the treaty of Versailles to break up the cannon and machine-guns and the torpedoes of Germany. He said up to the last year the German workmen wherever he went to the work shops and arsenals used to help him destroy these guns and said: 'For God's sake do destroy them. These are the things that brought ruin to our country.'"

Now he says, there is a change. They say: 'We cannot trust justice. We cannot trust treaties. We cannot trust the words of great nations. Force is the only thing that rules the world.'"

"Unless you stamp out that conviction, civilization is doomed on this earth."

Particularly did the little Welshman, speaking as a private citizen and not "in collusion with Lord Curzon," plead with America to guarantee the future of Secretary Hughes' proposal to cut the reparations tangle with an international commission.

"The world is better because America at one moment took an interest in the enforcement of right beyond its own frontiers," he declared. "The world will be better for it tomorrow when it knows that the interest of America in human rights has not weakened."

Commission from On High. "The commission of the trusteeship for civilization does not come from kings; it does not come from rulers or senators or parliamentarians. It comes from on high. The commission is yours and ours today. You responded to the invisible message in 1917 and we had already done so. But the commission is not fulfilled. The work is only half done. If it is not discharged fully—fully—civilization is doomed within this generation to a catastrophe such as the world has never seen."

Three times Lloyd George repeated the prayer "Don't be hard on Europe" and at one time in his address he asserted solemnly: "Vengeance is unbalanced. Every vindictive man or woman is partly insane."

The End

Those of the people of Dixon and community who were able to get into the Methodist church, which was filled to capacity, last evening to witness the presentation of the state's educational moving picture, "The End," a knowledge of what Illinois is doing for its unfortunate wards such as they had never dreamed of.

STATE PICTURE WAS EDUCATION TO DIXONITES

Large Crowd Witnessed Production at M. E. Church Last Eve.

The picture had an additional interest to the people of this city, since Graydon and Bradley Moll, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moll, had a leading part in the story, which was written by Mrs. Mae Wells, Assistant Superintendent of Charities, to include and show the state's work in care of its twenty-six institutions.

Practically every phase of the lives of the patients and inmates of each of the institutions is shown in the film and the scientific and humanitarian measures the state and its employees take in their care and treatment of the wards are forcefully demonstrated in the picture, which is cleverly constructed and equally as cleverly presented.

The church was packed to the doors long before Miss Lois Keyes opened the program with special instrumental music. Mrs. Lloyd Lewis, chairman of the Household Economics Department of the Dixon Woman's Club, under whose auspices the film was presented in this city, then took the platform, explaining the purpose of the meeting and introducing the Moll twins, who were present in person, and who were given resounding applause in recognition of their success in the state wide contest and their part in bringing Dixon further to the notice of the people of the state.

Mrs. Lewis explained the great part Mrs. Moll had in the preparation and production of the film and attempted to introduce her to the audience, but that lady modestly declined to appear on the platform. The chairman then introduced Col. Frank D. Whipp, Managing Officer of the State School for Boys at St. Charles, who delivered the lecture which explained the details of the work shown in the film, and which added much to its effectiveness.

Col. Whipp also brought to Dixon a wonderful exhibit of some of the work done at his institution in which the boys are given practical education in thrift. Many rugs of various colors and designs, made from old sweaters, socks, shirts etc., cleverly woven and dyed were shown in the exhibit, and especially attractive were some table runners made from burlap sacks, cleverly designed and colored.

In every way the evening was one of pleasure and education for the many who were able to get to the church, and the appreciation of the audience was voiced in many complimentary remarks for the Dixon Woman's Club enterprise in securing the film for production here.

Mrs. Moll and her two sons, accompanied by Mrs. Wells, left this morning for Springfield, where several scenes of the story are to be refilmed, and some additional features are to be added.

Millers Want Grain Exported to Be Sent as Flour, Not Whole

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Chicago, Nov. 3.—A committee of the Millers National Federation endeavored, at a conference concluded last night, to convince the Department of Agriculture, through its representative J. C. Brand, that wheat exported to relieve the growers' emergency should go as flour, the committee reported today. The millers said that the conference was held at the request of Secretary Wallace, that the department might learn the millers' views. They based their argument on the theory that "since the flour mills are here," it is "better economics" for the emergency surplus of wheat to be shipped to other countries in the form of flour than in the form of unmillable wheat.

The committee comprised some 15 millers from nine states, among them G. S. Milner, of Alton, Ill.

FRENCH ATTITUDE TOWARD AMERICA MAY BLOCK PARLEY

An Effort to Restrict Its Scope Dooms It to Failure.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Washington, Nov. 3.—Statements at the White House that President Coolidge would view the placing of restrictions on the proposed expert committee inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay reparations as committing the plan to almost certain failure, had a distinctly depressing effect on the entire outlook.

It remains to be disclosed what stipulations France may attach in joining the allies in a formal invitation for unofficial American representatives on the committee and it was indicated much would depend on the language in which they may be couched.

Should they appear to place restrictions on the scope of the inquiry, it was indicated that the Washington government probably would agree to American participation, but only after plainly stating its belief that an attempt to settle the reparations question in that way would be futile.

On the question of selecting American representation on the proposed committee, it was said at the White House that the President had decided that, both because of their official status and the necessary absence from Washington which would be involved, no member of the cabinet would be selected.

Lee Center School Pupils Are Examined

Monday and Tuesday of this week the county nurse, Mrs. Jessie S. Burtis, and the city school nurse of Dixon, Miss Bertha V. Hanes, conducted an inspection of the pupils of the Lee Center school.

A great deal of credit is due to Prof. Hilbish and the faculty for their hearty co-operation in every line of work that tends to raise the standard of this school.

At present they are contemplating the possibility of a dental clinic in the near future, and have already made arrangements for hot lunches during the winter months.

ALBERT BUSH, 14, MET DEATH ACCIDENTALLY

Ran in Front of John Kennedy's Big Auto Yesterday P. M.

Albert E. Bush, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Webb, 712 College avenue, died at his home this morning about 6 o'clock, death resulting from injuries sustained when an automobile truck passed over his body yesterday afternoon about 4:15 o'clock. The boy was crushed beneath the weight of a one-ton truck owned and driven by John P. Kennedy, of this city.

At the inquest conducted at the Jones funeral home this morning, Mr. Kennedy and several other witnesses to the accident told their versions of the unfortunate affair. Mr. Kennedy stated that he had made the turn at Seventh street and Depot avenue, going east to the alley, and then turned south on the alley, knocking him down and the rear wheel passed over his body.

"I don't know where the boy came from," Mr. Kennedy told the jury. "I did not see him until the front left light struck him. I was going not more than eight miles an hour at the time and stopped within two or three feet after hitting him. My first impulse was to stop at once, but then I thought that one of the wheels would be on his body and pulled ahead to permit the wheel to pass over his body."

Engineer Burrage and Fireman Koon of the Illinois Central switch engine crew, testified. The engineer witnessed almost all of the accident and said that the boy was running ahead of other children when he ran directly in the path of the truck. The boy ran ahead of other children who crossed the railroad tracks about that time coming from school.

Joseph Zampino, crossing flagman for the Illinois Central at the Seventh street crossing, also witnessed the accident and testified before the jury. All of the testimony pointed to an avoidable accident with the boy running in front of the truck.

Dr. C. C. Kost who attended the boy stated that there was a concussion of the head as well as a compression and that the left lung was also affected, aside from other bruises and abrasions about the body.

Witnesses said that the boy was conscious after the accident and when he was removed to his home, where he gradually collapsed into a comatose state and died a few minutes after 1 o'clock this morning.

George W. Dippel of Freeport was present at the inquest as a friend of the Webb family, and questioned each witness lengthily. Mr. Dippel stated that he had been in the family in one week, having been killed in Rockford early this week. He requested that the jury recess for the lunch hour, visit the scene of the accident and make a thorough investigation before returning a verdict.

Witnesses had completed their testimony at 12:40 and Coroner Whetstone granted a recess until 1:30. The jury was then called to the scene of the accident this afternoon and it was believed that other witnesses would be called before a verdict would be arrived at.

Germany's Cabinet Tries to Forestall Collapse of Money

Berlin, Nov. 3.—(By The Associated Press.)—New York's appraisal of the mark on the basis of one and two-thirds trillion to the dollar moved Chancellor Stresemann to convolve a midnight session of his cabinet at which several emergency ordinances were proclaimed for the purpose of forestalling a similar collapse of the mark in Berlin.

The government now will permit payments to be made in foreign currencies, although it is prohibited to specify gold exchange as the sole medium of payment. The fading paper mark still will rank as the official currency and its acceptance as such is made obligatory.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU SAY.
In speaking of a person's faults, pray don't forget your own. Remember those with homes of glass. Should never throw a stone. If we have nothing else to do than talk of those who sin, 'Tis better to commence at home And from that point begin.

We have no right to judge a man until he's fairly tried. We should not like his company. We know the world is wide. Some may have faults—and who has not?

The old as well as young; Perhaps we may, for aught we know, Have fifty to their one.

I'll tell you of a better plan, And find it works full well; To try my own defects to cure 'Tis others' faults I tell.

And though sometimes I hope to be No worse than some I know, My own shortcomings bid me let 'The faults of others go.

Then let us all, when we begin To slander friend or foe, Think of the harm one word may do To those we little know.

Remember, curses, sometimes, 'Like our chickens, 'roost at home'; Don't speak of others' faults until We have none of our own.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Hot Liquids.

Put a silver spoon into a glass jar before pouring in a hot liquid and your jar will never crack or break.

Scorched Linen.
Bread crumbs, rubbed over the scorched places in linen will cause the burned places to disappear.

Borax in Starch.
Put a little borax in your starch and you will find it gives a more permanent stiffness and that fabrics will iron more smoothly.

Care of Enamel.
If you will place your new enamel sauce pans in a pan of warm water and let the water come to a boil, then cool the pans will last longer without burning or cracking.

Frying Eggs.
To keep eggs from popping while they are frying add a teaspoon of flour to the grease in which they are cooking. This will improve the flavor.

Rustless Oil.
Any iron or steel utensils that you store away should be wiped over with kerosene or sweet oil, using a liquid rather than a heavy grease. Salty grease, like kitchen fat, will produce rust.

Colored Handkerchiefs.
Your colored handkerchiefs will require a little extra attention in the laundry. Soak them in salt water before they are washed in the regular fashion. This will set the colors and prevent fading or running.

ENJOYED HARD TIME PARTY.
Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Behrends of Sterling delightfully entertained sixteen guests at a Halloween hard time party Wednesday evening at their home. Ghosts, pumpkins, black cats and witches decorated the home and everyone attended in hard time costume.

A jolly time was enjoyed in playing games and cards and prizes were given to the winners in the games and cards, they being: Miss Hazel Dillon, Miss Leora Wilger, Charles Gifford and John Praetz. A spread was enjoyed late in the evening. Out-of-town guests were, Miss Alice Winkum of Erie, Miss Hazel Dillon of Dixon and Eugene Straughn of Chicago.

WILL SING SUNDAY MORNING.

Special music by the young people choir for the evening service.

Engagement Party and Shower

The home of Mrs. J. Fellows, 1512 South Fourth avenue, Maywood, was the scene of a happy gathering Saturday evening, Oct. 27, when Miss Marion Fellows entertained at a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

Covers were laid for fourteen and a splendid course dinner served. The home was prettily decorated in keeping with Halloween, the table decorations being the season's flowers and appropriate place cards and favors.

Miss Fellows had a novel way in which she announced her engagement. At the end of each favor was attached a small envelope with the inscription, "guess what," the envelope contained a card announcing the engagement.

SWEDEN'S CROWN PRINCE MARRIED TO KING'S NIECE

Simple Ceremony Was Celebrated Today in Gr. Britain.

London, Nov. 3.—(By the Associated Press).—Before the ancient altar of the intimate little Chapel Royal in St. James Palace where many a king and queen have been married since the days of Henry VIII, Crown Prince Gustave Adolf of Sweden took as his second bride this afternoon Louise Mountbatten, niece of the reigning sovereign of Britain.

There was none of the splendor of grandeur about the ceremony such as the weddings of royalty in Westminster Abbey have known. It was as simple as could be, considering the high estate of the bridegroom and bride, and the presence of so many royal witnesses, ambassadors and titled aristocrats. Fewer than 300 persons were able to find seats within the narrow confines of the chapel.

Prince Gustave wore the uniform of a general of the Swedish Army. His brother, Prince Wilhelm was best man.

Accompanied by Brother. The bride, wearing a gown made from a fine piece of Indian silver gauze, which had been given her by her uncle, the Grand Duke of Hesse, was accompanied to the altar by her brother, Lord Louis Mountbatten. Her train was of the same material and her veil of Indian silver lace was the one given by Queen Victoria to her daughter, Princess Alice, at her marriage to the Grand Duke of Hesse. The sleeves of the untrimmed bridal gown were long and close fitting, so long in fact that the bride did not wear gloves. Her silver shoes had low heels. She carried a small bouquet of lilies, quaintly arranged.

As the short bridal procession moved up the aisle, the hymn, "Lead Us, Heavenly Father," was sung by the choir. It was followed by the 67th Psalm, "God Be Merciful Unto Us."

Princesses Bridesmaids. Acting as bridesmaids were the four princesses of the royal house in Greece, Margaret, Thodora, Cecilia and Sophia, daughters of King George, and niece of the bride. The bride's train was borne by her little nephew and niece, the Earl of Medina and Lady Tatiana Mountbatten, children of the Marquis of Milfordhaven, who is the bride's brother.

The first part of the marriage ceremony was conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the second part by the Bishop of London. At either side of the bride and bridegroom sat the reigning sovereigns of Sweden and Great Britain. Members of both royal houses occupied nearby chairs. Behind them were the bridesmaids and distributed through the rest of the chapel were nannies of Great Britain and Sweden and many other courtiers.

Informal Reception. The simplicity of the marriage ceremony was sustained after the church service. King George and Queen Mary and King Gustav and Queen Victoria attended the wedding reception in an informal manner, not as "Their Majesties." There was no monster wedding cake to fill the eyes and the mouth of those invited to the reception at Clock House adjoining Kensington Palace, only a simple wedding cake of simple design prepared by an unpretentious cook who has been in the bride's family for many years.

Nor was there a glittering display of wedding gifts. Even the first bride had asked her friends to give her furniture and articles for her home, and as fast as these were received they were shipped to Sweden, often in the packing boxes in which they arrived.

The reception did not last long, and before nightfall the crown prince had taken his bride away from London on their honeymoon, most of which will be spent in Italy. They will arrive in Stockholm on Dec. 11.

Eighty-second Birthday Observed

Monday afternoon Mrs. Margaret Burright quietly observed her eighty-second birthday anniversary at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will Fletcher. She has lived a highly useful life and has the respect and wishes of relatives and many friends for future health and happiness.

CHILDREN'S UNDIES

The very newest vagaries of pleats are shown in these two frocks for fall. One has a brand new kind of apron tunic—three pleated flounces. The other has a full-length pleated front panel and wide loose-fitted sleeves. Besides being fashionable these dresses are almost practical, too, since the pleats have been cleverly placed where they give the chance of their coming quickly unpressed.

One of the silk crepes in golden brown or bottle green would be most attractive for either model.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

There is no breakfast dish that "sticks to the ribs" quite like a good hot cereal with cream.

The ready-to-eat cereals are all very well with fruit and sugar and cream on a warm summer morning, but when there's a nip in the air a dish of steaming oatmeal porridge or mush is needed to make a hearty breakfast.

There is no more nourishing, muscle building food so reasonable a price possible to serve. The grains themselves are composed chiefly of starch and carbohydrates with some water and mineral content. Wheat and oats contain some protein. The cream or milk furnishes fat and protein, making the whole dish a nearly perfect food.

There are one or two points worth remembering when cooking cereals. First, always cook them in boiling water. This means rapidly bubbling, not just a simmer or bubbling on the bottom of the pan.

Second, add salt to the water before adding the cereal.

Third, all raw cereals must be well cooked. An hour or longer is required no matter what the directions on the box suggest. Only by the long slow cooking of grains is their sweetness and digestibility fully developed. A double boiler is excellent for this purpose.

Sift the cereal to be cooked into three times its bulk of boiling water. Allow one teaspoon salt to three cups of water. Cook directly over the heat, stirring to prevent lumping for 10 or 15 minutes. Then put into boiling water in the bottom of the boiler and cook for half an hour or longer.

The cereal should be covered tightly. Fill up water pan with boiling water and let stand over night. In the morning reheat and serve. The heat of the cereal and the boiling water continue the cooking process after the fire is extinguished.

Any leftover cereal can be used in puddings or cut in thin slices and fried.

If you have no double boiler or fireless cooker try baking the oatmeal the night before.

Baked Oatmeal
One cup coarse oatmeal (not rolled oats), 4 cups rapidly boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt.

Slowly stir the cereal into the salted water. Cook 15 minutes. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven for two hours.

In the morning put the dish in a large pan of warm water, bring to the boiling point and keep simmering until thoroughly hot. The length of time required will, of course, depend on the shape and size of the dish.

Old-fashioned oatmeal requires more water than rolled oats.

Do you ever add raisins or dates to your breakfast cereal? They contribute both to the nourishment and palatableness of the dish.

Oatmeal porridge is a change and is especially good for children.

One cup rolled oats, 3 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup stoned and chopped dates or raisins.

Cook oats as suggested in double boiler. Rub through a sieve. In the morning add milk heated to the boiling point. Do not allow milk to boil. Cook over boiling water, stirring vigorously until perfectly blended. Add chopped fruit and serve with thin cream.

The long cooking of the oats brings out their natural sweetness and the addition of the sweet fruit makes added sugar unnecessary. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

Rev. Green Boosts Insulin Treatment

(By Horton B. Green.)

I believe I owe it to the public generally and to my fellow sufferers from diabetes particularly, to give my testimony regarding the insulin treatment for this terrible and seemingly rapidly increasing malady. Diabetes is a diseased condition of the pancreatic gland, one of the most important organs concerned in digestion.

This gland known as the pancreas in the human corresponds to the gland in animals known as the sweet breads. It lies behind the stomach near the liver and discharges into the bowel the most important digestive juice of any gland in the body, and the juice capable of digesting all kinds of food. The chief function of this gland seem to be to regulate the body's use of the sugar formed from the various sweets and starches in the food we eat. The deranged or diseased condition of this gland causes it to fail to function properly, thus depriving the digestive and assimilation organs of the sugar so necessary in repairing waste and building up the body. Not only so but the sugar is spilled into the urine and must be excreted by the kidneys, this not being their function, these organs are thus over taxed and debilitated thereby, which may be one cause of the soreness in the limbs and other parts in the more advanced cases of the disease.

The symptoms of the disease became perceptible in my case about eight years ago, but I supposed it was a condition incident to my advancing age and gave it little thought or attention until two years ago when I found in health very pronouncedly. After satisfying myself of the success of the insulin treatment I went to the hospital on Sept. 28. I was then passing 12½ per cent of sugar. After I had been there 48 hours and had received six treatments, I had less than one per cent sugar. When I went there I weighed 120 pounds, now after five weeks I weigh 131. I feel as well as I ever felt, except some soreness in my hips. I am still on a restricted diet and continue to take the insulin, which I administer myself. It is not yet known whether it will become permanently and absolutely cured, so as to leave off taking the insulin and return to normal diet, or whether we will continue the treatment and diet that remains to be found out. However, many of the patients are taking insulin at intervals once to twice a week and have returned largely to their normal diet. I unhesitatingly give the insulin treatment my hearty and fullest endorsement.

"quick bread" dough fried in deep hot fat.

Some cooks maintain that half beef suet and half lard is preferable to all lard for frying. That there is less trouble about the doughnuts soaking fat when the half-and-half fat is used.

Other cooks prefer a vegetable fat for deep fat frying.

This question each housewife must answer for herself

FRENCH REHABILITATION.

Frequent stories come from French sources of the marvelous recovery of France from the effects of war, and occasional mention is made of a surplus in the French treasury. The French people have indeed made great strides toward returning the devastated areas to production, and have contributed taxes to their government that enables it to make a favorable financial showing. But it must be remembered that in arriving at their treasury balances the French take no account of the debt of above $4,000,000,000 owed to the American taxpayers.

Americans ought always to have clearly in mind the very intimate connection between the amount of their own taxes and the failure of France and other debtor countries to pay their debts. Some $21,000,000,000 of Liberty bonds and Victory notes were sold to our citizens during the war period. Less than half of that huge sum went to pay for American military operations. It was loaned to allied nations to pay for the upkeep of their armies, and each one of the borrowers signed a solemn promise to repay it together with interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

Although less than half of the treasury receipts from the sale of bonds and notes was used to pay American bills, every dollar of those receipts became a part of the national debt of the United States upon which American taxpayers must pay annual interest at the average of 4½ per cent, and every bond and note must be finally redeemed by money taken from those taxpayers. That interest must be paid and those redemptions must be made whether foreign borrowers pay the United States or not.

The interest which American taxpayers are paying on the Liberty bonds representing the amount of the loan to France, amounts to around $170,000,000 annually. This is a contribution to French rehabilitation. That interest may never be returned to us, and France is making no move to pay the principal of the huge amount she owes. That too, will be a direct contribution from American taxpayers to the French people if France does not pay.

Contemplation of these facts is not pleasant for Americans, a substantial part of whose tax burden is made necessary by French delinquency. And it does not make that burden any easier to bear to read the financial statements from French officials in which no mention is made of their debt to America, much less expressing any appreciation of the tolerant attitude this government has thus far assumed.

THE GREEK APOLOGY.

Greece apologized to Italy, according to Mussolini's demand, in the form of a naval salute of twenty-one guns in honor of the Italian flag, while the Italian navy listened, beaming with satisfaction.

With every shot, the Greeks wished with all their hearts that it was a lyddite shell for an Italian warship. They apologizing for a murder which they maintained they never committed.

Such apologies never amount to much. Any apology that is not voluntary and sincere is not worth the breath or powder it takes. To the Greeks, that forced apology was a deadly insult. Sooner or later, Greece may find an opportunity to revenge it.

Nations have been in the habit of making each other eat humble pie, in that fashion, when they had the power. And that is one thing wrong with international affairs. Nations, dealing with each other, will not behave as individuals are expected to behave in dealing with each other. Nations will not be gentlemen—or Christians.

GREEK AND LATIN AGAIN.

French secondary schools are returning this fall to the study of Latin and Greek, ater twenty years' trial of the modern languages as substitutes. The French educators have found that without Latin, no Frenchman can know his own language. Therefore the colleges are going to require Latin, as they used to, for a "bachelor of arts" degree, without which no student can expect to become a minister, doctor or lawyer.

Greek will not be compulsory, but facilities will be provided for those who want it and its study will be encouraged by giving extra credits for it.

This indicates a tendency felt also in America, where the modern languages, as substitutes for the classic tongues, have not been found altogether satisfactory. The English language, too, is built largely of Latin, and has borrowed from Greek. Here, as in France, it is observed by many good judges that a generation growing up ignorant of those languages does not know how to speak and write its own.

Most of the present-day corruption of English is traced to the lack of old-fashioned language training. The blunders made in choosing words and putting them together, by otherwise intelligent and well informed people, are almost incredible to any one trained in fundamental word meaning and the principles of grammar and good taste such as are gained by acquaintance with the older tongues.

"Won't you show me how to change around the way you do, Charlie?" the Twins heard her say.

One day Nancy and Nick came up on two funny little lizards in Dixie Land.

One was called Sally Salamander and the other was called Charlie Chameleon and they looked almost exactly alike. Only Charlie could turn almost any color he wanted to (except pink or sky-blue or lilac), and Sally couldn't. She had to stay an ugly yellow with black shoe-button spots all over her, and she got tired of having only one dress.

"Won't you show me how to change around the way you do, Charlie?" the Twins heard her say. "There's nothing to it at all," answered Charlie. "All you've got to do is just wish. See?" And he turned from a beautiful pea-green to a lovely tomato red.

Sally almost did change color at that. She almost turned green with envy.

"I'll give you a lesson," said Charlie generously. "Try to turn the color of whatever you happen to be on. It's a good way to learn to hide if you're in danger. Now we're on brown earth so try to turn brown. Like me!" And the little chameleon turned to a lovely mud color.

"Now close your eyes and wish," he said. "I'll try!" said poor Sally.

A QUERY

BY BERTON BRALEY

(Suggested by Henry W. Curran)
You say your taxes are too high.
But do you vote?

About extravagance you sigh,
But do you vote?
How long, you wail, must we endure
This state of things which keeps us poor?
How long? I do not know, I'm sure;
But do you vote?

The lights are bad, the streets a mess!
But do you vote?
Your indignation you express,
But do you vote?
You say the bosses rule the show,
That graft is reaching high and low,
And doubtless all you say is go.
But—do you vote?

You growl at rotten politics,
But do you vote?
You howl at bosses and their tricks,
But do you vote?
You say, oh Decent Citizen,
(We've heard you, time and time again)
"We want things run by Business men!"
But—do you vote?

Unless you do (I wonder, DO you?)
You've got just what is coming to you!

Zev made a joke out the international race, but Papyrus, being a Briton, was naturally slow to get it.

Perhaps Papyrus might have done better in a steeplechase. Being used to hops as he is.

The report that Joe Beckett trained the English horse, plausible as it sounds, is probably untrue.

It was a signal victory for prohibition. You might say the horse's neck got the horse laugh.

Well, the English horse was in the lead once and that's more than you

"That's not the way!" scolded Charlie. "Mister Moccasin Skin could see you with his eyes shut, and so could Mister Pelican and Mister Duck and everybody. Maybe you can turn red better."

But like the wolf in the piggy story people know some things and other people know other things. Everybody can't know everything. You ought to be satisfied to know how to swim." And he shooed Mister Duck away and saved Charlie.

Like a yellow streak, Sally Salamander flopped into the water and swam away.

But poor Charlie! He couldn't swim and had to stay where he was.

He turned every color he knew how but it was too late. Mister Duck had seen him. "Say, Sally," called Nick. "Some people know some things and other people know other things. Everybody can't know everything. You ought to be satisfied to know how to swim." And he shooed Mister Duck away and saved Charlie.

America's Favorite Songs

COLUMBIA, THE GEM OF THE OCEAN

"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" was written by a Philadelphian who, in the role of an obliging friend, composed the song to assist an actor acquaintance.

Its authorship has not always been considered definite. Some authorities describe the composition as if uncertain origin and state truly that in America the authorship has been claimed by both David T. Shaw and Thomas a'Becket. Another claim is to the effect the song originated in England.

However, the most careful investigation seems to show conclusively that the song is really American and that it was written by Thomas a'Becket.

A'Becket's claim to authorship is that in the fall of 1843, while engaged as an actor in a Philadelphia theater, he was visited by David T. Shaw, who requested that a'Becket write a song for his benefit night. Shaw produced some patriotic verses but a'Becket found them ungrammatical and deficient in rhythm.

That night a'Becket wrote the song. A few weeks later he left for New Orleans and was much surprised to see a copy entitled, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," written, composed and sung by David T. Shaw.

"On my return," he says, "I waited upon the publisher and produced the original copy in pencil. The song then was published giving me credit for authorship and composition."

O Columbia, the gem of the ocean. The home of the brave and the free. The shrine of each patriot's devotion. A world offers homage to thee. Thy standards make heroes assemble. When Liberty's form stands in view; Thy banners make tyranny tremble. When borne by the red, white, and blue!

When borne by the red, white, and blue! When borne by the red, white, and blue! Thy banners make tyranny tremble. When borne by the red, white, and blue!

When war wings its wide desolation, And threatened the land to deform, The ark then of our nation's fortune, Columbia rode safe thro' the storm; With her garlands of victory around her.

When so proudly she bore her brave crew; With her flag proudly floating before her. The boast of the red, white and blue! The boast of the red, white and blue! With her flag proudly floating before her.

The star-spangled banner bring hither O'er Columbia's true sons let it wave; May the wreaths they have won never wither, Nor its stars cease to shine on the brave; May the service, united, ne'er sever, But hold to their colors so true; The army and navy forever, Three cheers for the red, white and blue!

Three cheers for the red, white and blue! Three cheers for the red, white and blue! The army and navy forever, Three cheers for the red, white and blue!

AMERICA
Dozens of nations have used the tune of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" for a national song. The most familiar versions are the English "God

Save the King" and the German "Heil dir am Siegerkranz."

We are told, perhaps facetiously, that "the Germans got it from the Norsemans, who had heard it sung by the Finns, who most likely captured it from the Huns, who doubtless brought it from Asia when they entered Europe."

Despite the uncertainty as to the composer of "America," there is no doubt as to its author, the Rev. Samuel P. Smith. It was at the age of 24, while a student at Andover Theological Seminary, in 1832, that Dr. Smith wrote the famous anthem.

It happened that Lowell Mason, the noted composer and organist, was interested in some school music books brought back from Germany by William C. Woodbridge. Mason, having no knowledge of German turned them over to Smith and asked him to translate or write new texts.

The young student was attracted by one tune in particular. He noted that the words were patriotic, "And I was instantly inspired," he relates, "to write a patriotic hymn of my own. Seizing a scrap of paper I began to write and in half an hour it was done."

The following Fourth of July the song was sung at a children's celebration in Boston. The author soon began to hear of the hymn being sung widely, and later the Civil War brought it into universal requisition.

What is your favorite American song? Is it in this list? Send your choice to Kenneth S. Clark, Community Service, 315 Fourth Avenue, New York, as part of a nation-wide vote.

The next year the same offer was made again and continued until the crowd became so large that it was necessary to have what is known as the Gilbert Oyster Supper here in town as the Gilbert home could no longer accommodate such crowds. Then it became necessary to go from the Kerston Hall to a still larger room and last year they went to the large store room of R. W. Smith. NEXT WEEK AT WGY
General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y., (Eastern Standard Time)
Joseph Quinby, who recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage to S. Manly, at WGY, the General Electric Company broadcasting station at Schenectady, N. Y., is going to have all his neighbors in for a huskiness party on Friday night, November 9. The Corn Huskers Orchestra has been invited and will play for the old-fashioned reels and "hoe-downs." The Cowbell Four has been practicing some new harmonies for the vocal part of the program. W. W. Norton of Hartford, N. Y., an authority on the problems of the farmer will give a talk.

Before the Farm Program, November 9, WGY will introduce Bonnar Cramer, a young pianist of Brooklyn, N. Y., who will give a recital. Mr. Cramer has been a pupil of Josef Shevchik. The Chicago Music News commenting on his work said recently: "His technique is flawless and he is a firebrand of power and brilliancy."

The WGY Players rarely repeat a production, but so many requests have been received for another performance of "The Green Goddess" that the director, Edward H. "THE FOOL"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, marries Jerry Goodkind for his money. Daniel is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity in New York because of his radical sermons. Gilchrist is sent to the coal mines by Goodkind senior and wires that a big strike is settled. A delegation of strikers comes north to interview the president and directors. They are received in Jerry's home, first Stedman, then Hennig and Chanski. They do not meet with success. Clare is angry because her dinner party is interrupted by Jerry's business meeting. Daniel calls to see Goodkind senior.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Don't mention it," he replied scornfully.

"I'm very grateful, but—" She spoke haltingly.

"But what?"

"Never mind, we'll talk about it some other time."

Jerry moved toward her indignantly.

"We'll talk about it now," he said with an air of finality.

"I'll go," put in Gilchrist, starting for the door.

"No you won't," said Jerry, turning on him. "You made a crack about my leaving 24 hours before you did. Now how do you know when I left?" He turned to his wife.

"If that's what you're sure about, for heaven's sake drop it. I'm sorry you've been alone and I've sent you a handsome gift as an apology."

"I don't want it," Clare put the scarf back on the table. "I don't want to be paid for shutting my eyes to any insulting thing you choose to do."

"And I don't propose to be made a blackguard before strangers," said Jerry angrily.

"Dan isn't a stranger. And I don't want to make you a blackguard. Only—since you've insisted on the truth—Dan, when did my husband leave Black River?"

"I haven't seen him since Thursday," said Dan calmly. "As a matter of fact, I wasn't in Black River."

"Oh—" broke in Jerry. "Where were you?"

"At the mines."

"Is that the truth?" asked Clare.

"Of course, it's the truth," said Jerry. "And if it wasn't—I don't see that you have any right to ask questions. I haven't done anything that wasn't in the bargain. I haven't done anything every man doesn't do."

"Every man—perhaps—but one," Clare said wistfully.

"My God. Now we've got it," exploded Jerry. "Gilchrist! If you'd only married him. He's good—because he says so. You should have been here a minute ago—when the company detective warned us not to mention Gilchrist to Joe Hennig."

"You mean—" Daniel started, surprised.

"I mean Pearl Hennig," Jerry said sneeringly.

"Pearl Hennig?" Gilchrist was roused. "Why you—" He stopped and looked toward Clare. "—you know that's not true."

"I know it's not true," put in Clare. "Oh, do you?" said Jerry doubtingly.

As he spoke there came sounds of voices from the stairway. There was anger in the tones.

"Now listen—behave yourself," Stedman was saying.

"Behave—hell!" shouted Joe Hennig angrily.

Jerry turned to the door.

"Ask Stedman. Ask Hennig," he continued. "And before you make up your mind where I was yesterday, ask where he was—"

Joe Hennig flung the door open as Jerry spoke. Stedman tugged nervously at his arm, but the stock workman advanced menacingly.

"I mean Pearl Hennig," Jerry said sneeringly.

CHAPTER XII

The Unanswered Charge

HENNING jerked himself free of the restraining arm and strode straight for Gilchrist. Daniel turned to meet him, bewildered, but with that calm look of unafraid in his eyes. Jerry waited uncertainly and Clare looked on with tense interest.

"You—Gilchrist," stormed the irate intruder. "Where've you got my wife?"

"I haven't got your wife, Hennig," Gilchrist's answer was as dispassionate as the query was frenzied.

"The hell you haven't," shouted Hennig.

Gilchrist turned quickly to Clare. "You'd better go," he said.

Jerry was more sure of himself now.

"I want her to stay," he interceded firmly. "What's all this about, Stedman?"

"Can't search me," was the answer. "Unnaki stuck to us all the way home. When he left, I went in to have a talk with Joe alone—see?"

"I'll go," put in Gilchrist, starting for the door.

"No you won't," said Jerry, turning on him. "You made a crack about my leaving 24 hours before you did. Now how do you know when I left?" He turned to his wife.

HIGH SCHOOL, LEE CENTER, MAY HAVE ANNUAL THIS YEAR

Will Be Big Undertaking for So Small an Institution.

Lee Center—A. P. Lyman was in Decatur on business this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bogard and family have moved into the Compton house on the cemetery road, now owned by the Ulrich heirs.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Toland have moved here from Champaign and will live with the Ben Bogard family this winter. Mr. Toland and Mrs. Bogard are brother and sister.

Misses Edith Pomeroy and Pearl Albrecht, entertained nine young couples with a Halloween party last Saturday night at the Pomeroy farm home. The house was appropriately decorated and refreshments were served. Amusing games caused the evening to pass very rapidly.

The Sunday school classes of Mesdames Duntion and S. L. Shaw were entertained at the same place Tuesday night, similar entertainment being provided.

Mrs. Wilcox of Chicago, will give an address on the A. M. A. in the church next Sunday evening at 7:30. There will be a special musical program.

Mrs. Holmes, of San Diego, Calif. has been the guest of her niece Mrs. H. P. Hilbish.

Mrs. George Robinson and daughter, Mary, were guests at a party in honor of the former's son Carl's 23rd birthday last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bloomquist in Amboy. Decorations appropriate to Halloween were in the rooms and a delicious two course supper was served. Carl was the recipient of many nice gifts.

Rev. Duntion and family motored to Providence last Thursday evening to attend a wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs. Cushing. Mr. Cushing with his daughter Delight, has frequently visited at the Duntion home here.

LEE CENTER HIGH SCHOOL.

Cornelia Cornibear '24. Miss Irene Hersam, the grammar room teacher gave an interesting talk about her tour through the east to the high school students at a recent morning assembly. The talk was exceedingly interesting and more good things are in store for the pupils when she relates her experiences in and impressions of New York City.

On the afternoon of October 12, Cicero Literary Society gave a Patriotic program commemorating different periods of American History.

Roll Call was responded to with the name of a noted American and some interesting facts about each. A timely program fitting to the Historical Periods followed.

Bruce Lyman, Phyllis Conibear, Clyde Hillison and Eleanor Shaw have been placed on a committee to investigate the possibilities of our high school having a Year Book. While the undertaking is a large one for so small a high school, yet great things are sometimes wrapped in small packages. Let's go!

The high school and grades are certainly indebted to the Ladies Circle of the Congregational church for the bountiful and appetizing lunch served in the church parlors each month, at the nominal sum of ten cents. It is hoped that this may be a stepping stone to a daily warm lunch during the winter months, and who would be more capable of handling it than the Ladies Circle?

A spirited contest in salesmanship was staged last week between the "Barney Googies" and "Spark Plugs." The former gained thirty-eight subscriptions and the latter thirty-three. The contest netted the high school thirty-five dollars and fifty cents. One half of this is to be used for library books, the remainder for Athletic equipment. As a result of the contest, the "Spark Plugs" will own the "Barney Googies" with a backward party.

An interesting project is being developed by the Junior English Class. They are building a model of the Elizabethan theatre, "The Swan." By the study of books and pictures the class believe they can make the theatre complete in every detail.

Athletics. The annual class volleyball tournament is on. Up to date the Seniors and Juniors are tied in the number of games won. The Juniors were the class champions last year.

The following boys received their L. C. in athletics: Floyd Pomeroy, '23, letters with gold and white seal; James Jones '23; Bruce Lyman, '24; Earl Henchel, '24; Lydie Frost, '24; Leslie Blecker, '25. Letters with white star: Clyde Hillison, '25; Letters with gold star: George Ikens, '25.

Clyde Hillison '25, received from Dr. Poole of Compton, a beautiful silver medal for the best individual work in the Junior Track Meet held at Dixon last spring. Clyde won four firsts, one second and one third.

Alumni Notes. John Wood, class of '16, recently visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wood. John informs us that he is a student at Kent College of Law, Chicago.

Bootlegger Ike Lark certainly takes care of his customers. He's giving Joe Kite accordion lessons and he gives him a tin cup later on. The difference between a big, clumsy, eight-miles-per-gallon seven-passenger automobile and a small stand-in is that we can put the car up for the winter.

cago. During his stay at Lee Center he received his 3rd degree in the Masonic Lodge.

Carl Carlson, class of '18, is working in Los Angeles, California, having gone there recently with Andrew Aschenbrenner, a former student. Earl reports that he is enjoying himself immensely.

Miss Maude Frost, class of '22, is developing her literary ability at De Kalb Teachers' College. Besides doing some cartooning for the Annual, we understand that Maude will appear on the staff this year.

CHRISTMAS CARDS. B. F. SHAW PRINTING CO., DIXON, ILL.

You may gather that this huge metropolis has no night life in the sense that New York, Chicago and other big American cities have. Fact is, in many ways, London is the loveliest big town in the universe. The subway lines shut down between 11 and 12 at night. Most of the street car lines also stop.

All of this forces Londoners either to tuck their toes to the daisies in the evening or else rely upon taxis which is a rather expensive way of locomotion.

At a banquet recently, Marshal Petain of France was sitting next to a very beautiful woman whose name he didn't catch. They got on famously. The lady showed her great admiration for the hero of Verdun.

"I am going to write about you the most beautiful of my poems."

"Ah," beamed the marshal, innocently thinking he was saying the nice thing. "Ah, how interesting. You write verses then?"

The famous literary critic on his other side nearly died laughing for the lady was no other than the Countess de Noailles, one of the greatest poets in France.

George Carpentier might not get by on Broadway without being recognized as the man that Jack Dempsey punched, but he certainly got away with it at Deauville, the sweet French seaside resort where you take the dough out of your pocket and put it in the villa.

The other night at a gala charity festival a pretty actress, Millicent, was called "Carpentier" in the ballet. She was to represent boxing. She didn't appear and at once the fashionable audience beat its kid-gloved hands and called loud and long.

Carpentier—Carpentier! According to the voracious French chronicler, the great Georges was there in a box. He didn't understand the clamor. He thought these aristocrats were calling upon him to give an immediate exhibition. So he stood up, embarrassed, saying:

"I have no gloves. . . . And I haven't the right. . . . You know my contract. . . ."

The glacial silence woke him up. He realized these people didn't know he was not the one and only Carpentier. So he slumped back into his seat and the show went on.

Peasants of those countries where black bread is eaten usually have good teeth.

EARACHE

Have you ever stopped a moment to consider that almost everything in life, customs and habits changes except the use and misuse of the old-fashioned neighborhood remedies? The cure for earache is clearly one of these. The ear plug of cotton, usually accompanied by the "dropping in" of sweet oil and laudanum, in spite of all that shall ever be said or written against it, will be continued. Roasted onions and hosts of similar substances will no doubt be used to the end of time.

Whatever the cause or remedy, earache requires careful treatment to afford relief. Neuralgia is rarely, if ever, the cause of earache. Careful examination by a physician can alone determine the real cause. Beware of "ear-drops" for relief. If you try a number and the last one affords relief, that's it. I mean, look out for it.

Earache is caused by scratching or by irritation and infection of the auditory canal. This slight infection may produce a small boil which causes temporary pain. The scratching and infection in most cases are the result of amateur attempts to remove ear-wax. Sometimes, when this ear-wax has been tightly pressed against the drumhead of the ear, earache will result, but not usually.

Again, earache may be caused by catarrhal conditions. This so-called serious catarrh is a disease of the drumhead. It is very common in children who are not properly cared for and sometimes is the cause of running ear and small blisters on the drumhead. Slight deafness will also result from this cause.

Earache may also be caused by nasal discharges used improperly. Violent improper nose blowing sometimes carried fluid where it irritates the ear.

No remedy is more useful or easy to apply in slight cases of earache than boiled water cooled down to a temperature the ear can stand, about 125 degrees Fahrenheit. The ear drops only gave the heat and hot water can do it better. Protect the ear carefully from external influences. Use a night cap if you wish; it will do no harm and often does good.

Severe cases of earache are not for the layman to fuss with. Call your physician, as it may be a serious complication.

WARD REAL STAR

New York—The play of Second Baseman Aaron Ward of the Yankees in the recent world series stamps him as the best player at that position in the American League with the possible exception of Eddie Collins. Since Ward has just arrived, and Collins is fast going the other way, Ward is the more valuable. And to think New York tried to trade Bob Meusel and Ward for Collins last year.

SAY PEOPLE!

Do you know that during the first eight months of this year 181 manufacturers report they have built 2,689,837 automobiles and trucks.

With the 14,000,000 cars licensed in the United States and over 3,000,000 million cars and trucks being manufactured each year, do you realize what it means to the CITY where the BEMENT POSITIVE DRIVE DIFFERENTIAL IS MADE? Even if only FIVE per-cent of the cars are equipped with it.

Men prominent in the automotive industry, say that in three years EIGHTY per-cent of the cars driven will be equipped with THIS DEVICE. Figure it out how many MEN will be needed to manufacture the DIFFERENTIAL to supply the demand.

DUNTILE

Builds Better Buildings Cheaper

THIS is what we mean by a better building. One that is a better place in which to live or work, one that performs its functions in a more thorough way. It must be a healthful building, free from dampness. A comfortable building, warm in winter and cool in summer. It cannot burn down, neither must it deteriorate with age—it must be permanent. A modern building that stays modern and an attractive building that has its value enhanced by a distinctive beauty.

To build such a building cheaper means that the cost of materials must be less and that the job be done more rapidly with less labor and material. Not only should the first cost be less, but the later expense of repair and upkeep should be eliminated.

Duntile builds such buildings, better and cheaper.
